

Traffic Light Helps Foil Boy Auto Thief

Pursuers Pick Up Lost Trail While Waiting For Signal To Change.

SEE MOTOR DRIVEN OFF

A traffic light proved the undoing of a fifteen-year-old boy, accused of stealing an automobile from in front of a home in Narberth, who was captured shortly before midnight last Thursday.

Allen T. Kirk and his brother-in-law, H. S. Watts, were seated in the front room of Kirk's home, at 104 Elmwood Avenue, Narberth, when Watts' automobile was driven away from in front of the house.

Both ran to the garage, got Kirk's automobile and started in pursuit. The stolen car was already out of sight.

They cruised around the neighborhood for more than an hour, looking for the automobile. At City Line and Conshohocken Avenue, they stopped for a traffic light, and while they were waiting, Watts' automobile went by on City Line Avenue.

The chase began and the automobile ahead, which was followed by another motor, picked up speed. The driver turned into Belmont Avenue and headed east.

He was out-distancing his pursuers when Thirty-third Street and Montgomery Avenue, a dead end, was reached, and the youth abandoned the automobile.

A few seconds later Kirk pulled up, with his hand on the automobile horn, and the noise awakened most of the neighborhood. Someone telephoned police of the Twenty-eighth and Oxford Streets station.

Kirk and Joseph Love, 3010 Page Street, Philadelphia, a bystander, darted up an alley after the their suspect, and as the latter was about to climb a fence, they grabbed him.

Captain Bulmer and Sergeant McCadden took the prisoner to the station. He said his name is John Coghlin, Hunting Park Avenue near Twenty-second Street, Philadelphia.

June 30 Is Set For Date of Summer School Opening

Announcement was made this week by Principal George H. Wilson that the Narberth School's summer school will be opened Monday, June 30—instead of the July date announced in "Our Town" last week. Registration for grades four and up should be made now with the principal or the school secretary.

There is no charge for attendance and the summer session is operated by the School of Education of the University of Pennsylvania without cost to the school district. It is intended especially for pupils who have deficiencies in subjects and who wish to make up back work.

Bake Sale Today

Delicious pastry—cakes, pies, nut bread—and potato salad and deviled eggs will be sold today on H. B. Wall's lawn, corner of Haverford and Forest Avenues, from 9 A. M. to 2 P. M., if they last that long. The sale is being given for Narberth's Methodist Episcopal Church by its Sunshine Bible Class, and is in charge of Miss Susan Baker and Mrs. A. J. Bawden.

Vernie Fleck Tops Narberth Batsmen

Veteran Holds Lead For Consistent Hitting in the Past Eight Games.

LIST TEAM'S AVERAGES

Youth's mighty grit and stamina, sparkling with ardent dash in battle, in sending into obscurity aging athletes of renown, has nothing on the patriarchal Vernie Fleck, Narberth's outfielder.

Fleck's keenness of eye at the plate, his terrific drives into the outfield and his expert base-running have actually set a dizzy pace for the younger members of the unit and it is a pace that even his more juvenile pals fail to approach. Vernie undoubtedly is the oldest participant of the Narberth Club, and has to his credit years of vast experience that very few young athletes will attain.

In the past eight games in which Narberth has played during this season, Fleck has been the most consistent batter, averaging approximately three hits a game. On two occasions thus far, he has wielded the hickory for the maximum percentage. Fleck went into the lead early in the year when he lifted the laurels from the gallant brow of Mickey Burns, slugger extraordinary.

'Old Fogey' Suggests a Week-end Motor Tour of Unusual Historical Interest

Where the Gulph Mills golf course is now located and prior to the Revolution there resided John Hughes, of Walnut Grove Farm. He was living there in 1743 and in 1765 received his commission as stamp officer for the Province of Pennsylvania, a position secured for him by his life-long friend, Mr. Benjamin Franklin. An honor that almost cost Mr. Hughes his life. In the same year 1765 he sent one Anthony Wayne to Nova Scotia to buy land and in the articles of agreement between Hughes and Wayne the following rules were to be followed:

1. Good land and navigable water.
2. The Head of Navigation in Rivers that is the Tide.

St. Margaret's Parishioners Disobey Pastor and Celebrate His Jubilee

Feted on Jubilee

The Rev. Robert F. Hayes, who was given a surprise celebration by St. Margaret's parishioners last week in Narberth. May 31 marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Tells of Radio History

A brief talk on the history of radio and wireless telegraphy featured the program of the Bala-Cynwyd-Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday. The speaker was Philip A. Livingston, local publisher.

Mr. Livingston told of the early experiments in this country, which took place in the Philadelphia district. An interesting fact, unknown to many local people, is that the wireless telephone was invented at Narberth. In September, 1900, successful tests were made in the borough by the inventor, Archibald Frederick Collins, and Dr. Willet E. Rotzell, who assisted him.

Narberth Priest Honored Upon Occasion of His Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

CHILDREN GIVE FLOWERS

This is a story of an order which was disobeyed—of a pastor who was surprised—of a celebration that will long be remembered in Catholic circles of Narberth and hereabouts. It all happened this way. . .

On May 31, last, came the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Rev. Robert F. Hayes' ordination to the priesthood—a great event in a priest's life—an occasion for parishioners to show their love and honor for a beloved pastor.

But Father Hayes in his humility desired no such celebration, and so after rehearsing several nights before his mirror, he managed to alter his kindly face into an unaccustomed sternness. With such an expression he commanded his curate, Father Walsh, and those parishioners who broached the subject, that there was to be made nothing whatever of the aforementioned occasion. Then to make assurance doubly sure, he retreated to the mountains of Kentucky, where he remained till his anniversary day had gone into history for a full week.

Disobedience

But Father Hayes didn't get away with it. His parishioners had a meeting and decided to disobey their pastor—to wound him with the kind of wound that is apt quickly and painlessly to heal.

Committees were appointed and all Catholic homes that could be reached in so short a time were called upon. The work was divided up and put through—all under the utmost secrecy, for this was to be a surprise party of the real surprise sort.

On Thursday, June 12, Father Hayes had an engagement for dinner at the home of two of his parishioners. They called for him and brought him to their home in Merion. They talked about everything and nothing. Then there came a phone message. Next Father ceding the World War. The borough owes much to Mr. Harjes that it never can repay.

Just opposite the new dam of the Springfield Water Co. is Moor Hall. You can read about this place whenever you care to visit St. David's Church at Radnor. The door step stone tells the story. Judge Pennypacker lived at Moor Hall about 1904 and there he entertained Senator Quay. Incidentally that visit made Judge Pennypacker Governor Pennypacker; and when the writer called on Mr. Harry Pennypacker some years ago he was not a little surprised when Harry pointed out the back parlor and said: "Here is where Senator Quay slept when he visited Sam," and then sort of to himself—"Gee, that fellow was a Prince."

Now go on through Phoenixville, past the General Pikes Hotel and turn left over the Ridge Road and on to Churchtown in Lancaster County, noting the hills and vales of Chester County, a country that produced Bayard Taylor and Thomas Buchanan Read, the Bedouin Love Song and Sheridan's Ride. You will cut across a corner of Berks County at Morgantown and shortly thereafter pass through the billowing fields of wheat and the magnificent farms of Lancaster County.

At the west end of Church Town turn right to Spring Grove Forge Antique Shop and confer with the Cheyneys, who will speak for themselves. A feature of their guest house is that week-end guests are limited to eight in number. They serve a delicious old-fashioned supper on Sundays.

Egyptian Theatre News

Laurel and Hardy are at their funniest in "They Go Boom," their latest talking comedy showing at the Egyptian Theatre, Cynwyd, this Friday and Saturday. The feature this week-end is "Puttin' on the Ritz," in which Harry Richman and a large and capable cast give a performance noted for its novel and catchy song hits.

In place of the Marion Davies picture tentatively announced for next Monday and Tuesday, the Egyptian management has booked "Roadhouse Nights," a dramatic show whose music and comedy are infectious. Its cast includes: Helen Morgan, night club hostess and star of the stage productions of "Show Boat" and "Sweet Adeline"; Charles Ruggles, whose "drunk" characterizations were highlights in Walter Huston's "Gentlemen of the Press" and "The Lady Lies," and Jimmy Durante, popular vaudeville star of and with the trio which played often at the Palace Theatre, New York—the Clayton, Jackson and Durante team. An added feature is Charles Chase's comedy, "All Teed Up."

Vilma Banky stars in "A Lady to Love," playing at the Egyptian Wednesday and Thursday. Coming next Friday and Saturday is "The Golden Calf"; and scheduled for presentation soon are "High Society Blues," Buddy Rogers in "Young Eagles," Nancy Carroll in "Honey," Ramon Novarro in "Gay Madrid," and Norma Shearer in "The Divorcee."

Judge Rules Upon Water Supply, Creates Problem

Judge Williams, in one of the shortest opinions ever handed down in the Montgomery County Courts, last Friday decided the equity action brought some time ago by the City of Philadelphia against Philadelphia Suburban Water Company, in which the Court was asked to restrain the defendant from taking water from the Perkiomen Creek, to the alleged detriment of the city of Philadelphia.

The opinion covers but a part of one page, and in its text is:

"The prothonotary is directed to enter the following decree nisi: 'If and when the daily flow of the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia is reduced to one hundred and six million and eight hundred and forty-nine thousand (106,849,000) gallons of water, the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company, the defendant, is enjoined and restrained from interfering with a daily flow of twenty million, seven hundred and seventy-six thousand and one hundred and ninety-three and four-fifths (20,776,193 4-5) gallons of water from the Perkiomen Creek.'"

Judge Williams, in the decree, created a water problem for Philadelphia as well as the defendant company, as some one will have to tabulate the daily water flow to determine whether the city is getting its rightful supply.

The Suburban Water Company furnishes nearly all the water used in this Main Line section.

Narberth Theatre News

"The Golden Calf," playing at the Narberth Theatre this Friday and Saturday, is so named because Jack Mulhall, in the role of a young advertising artist, seeks a "golden calf" for a hosiery advertising campaign. Sue Carol is his secretary. El Brendel, comedian seen here recently in "Sunny Side Up," is at his inimitable best as an artist friend of the couple. The comedy, which includes several song hits, affords a close-up of life in Greenwich Village, as well as in cabarets and on the stage. The accompanying attraction is a Laurel and Hardy comedy.

Joan Crawford and a singing cast of cowboys—including "Ukelele Ike" and Benny Rubin—will be seen-heard at the Narberth playhouse Monday and Tuesday in "Montana Moon." Male leads are unsophisticated Johnny Mack Brown and Sheikhish Ricardo Cortez, who tangoes admirably with the incomparable Joan. As an added attraction the fourth in a series of musical novelties will be seen-heard. It is Liszt's Second Hungarian Rhapsody, played by a seventy-piece orchestra conducted by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld.

Next Wednesday the feature will be a great actress—Ruth Chatterton—in a great play—"Sarah and Son." The feature next Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be "High Society Blues," latest success in which Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell are starred.

Hedgerow To Present "Liliom" Next Monday

"Liliom," the well-known fantasy from the pen of Ferenc Molnar, the Hungarian playwright, will be the third play in the series of Hedgerow Theatre presentations at the Anthony Wayne Theatre on Monday evening June 23. By the author, "Liliom" is described as "A Legend in Seven Scenes and a Prologue" and by the large public that has already witnessed the play at Hedgerow, it is relished for its unusual blending of realism and fantasy, and of pathos and humor.

The principal parts next Monday night will be played by Harry Bellaver, Miriam Phillips, Jasper Deeter, Dudley Vaughan and Jean Sweidel. There will be a large supporting cast.

Work Is Doubled.

WORKERS NEED JOBS

At the monthly meeting of the Executive Committee of the Main Line Federation of Churches, Mrs. J. Emott Caldwell, chairman of the Volunteers' Committee, reported that the total receipts for Little Garden Days were $2296.86.

Appreciation was expressed for the co-operation given by the community in making this event a success. Much was due not only to those who contributed plants and money, but those who contributed time, services, and to those business firms who made contributions of other supplies.

The executive secretary reported that, for the first three months of 1930, the amount expended for relief was double that for 1929 and it continues much above last year's and the amount planned for this year. It was urged that work should be given local men as far as possible.

Penshurst Farm Ayrshires Making Production Records

Testing under the Ayrshire Herd Test the one hundred and fifty-one Ayrshires owned by Penshurst Farm, Narberth, Pa., during April, secured the third highest production average in Pennsylvania, with an average of 796 pounds of 4.06 per cent. milk, 32.36 pounds of butterfat. Every cow in the herd that had once freshened was included in computing this average, regardless of age or stage of lactation reports Advanced Registry Superintendent W. A. Kyle, of the National Ayrshire Breeders' Association at Brandon, Vermont.

Individual honors in the herd for production were won by Good Gift's Armour, a seven-year-old, which cow produced 1821 pounds of milk, 87.23 pounds of butterfat; Fico's Favorite Thelma, a four-year-old cow, that produced 2212 pounds of milk, 83.17 pounds of butterfat, and Penshurst Theo, a three-year-old cow, that produced 1830 pounds of milk, 72.47 pounds of butterfat.

Mr. Cabrey Begs to Amplify the Records

To the Editor of "Our Town":

It's going on fifteen years since we came to Narberth and now on the eve of our departure we find our names for the first time in the police records, a fact which, it would seem, calls for some kind of explanation. It was a fine opening for the presently elusive editor, who knew full well what he was starting when he inflicted this pitiless publicity on us, and may he return from the vacation which now engages him with the most persistent and pernicious case of poison ivy that a man can have and yet live.

To get along in concord and harmony with one's neighbors is well established as a primary obligation and it would appear to be a pretty poor sort of civic capacity when the police have to be called in to adjust differences which should be resolved by an amicable spirit of give-and-take, mindful, as we ought to be, that most all of us trespass as frequently as we are trespassed upon.

A week or two previously we had been turned in by other neighbors, folks who did not like the rumpus which children make, and so upset were they about it that they endeavored to give force to their complaint by having others join in their petition for relief. They soon learned, however, they had to proceed on their own, as the others had their children, and because of that, or because their nerves were in sounder shape as a result of a fuller experience with life, the objectors were informed they had to go it alone, and so they did.

Nevertheless, when Henry Frye very nicely called the matter to our attention we forthwith had the racket cut down, feeling a bit sorry that small boys at play could be regarded as so much of an annoyance.

In the case where we are reported as the complainants the circumstances, we think, are considerably different. The man and wife who objected to the children never made their protest to us. They apparently decided long ago to be no part of this community and have kept entirely to themselves, which is no business of ours. Still we feel we were entitled to the privilege of pleasing them, of doing any reasonable thing that should be done, and we regret they could not see it that way.

The business of the dogs, in our opinion, was altogether a separate kind of thing. For three years our clumsy Hector has been around and, big bruiser and all that he is, no sign of a fight was ever seen in him. Came around the new dog, which soon saw an easy prey in our star boarder, possessed only of Fabian tactics, and some sanguinary spectacles were the consequence. Even the worm turns, however, and our dog started to learn to put up his props, and there were five fierce frays on our lawn and porch. Windows were broken, the children terror-stricken, blood galore and doctor's bills to pay for the dog and those who were bitten as they tried to part the contestants.

This was the time we decided to call up Dr. Town. Calmly enough we told him the facts, the misery and money the battles were costing us, and fairly enough he answered us. He explained the collie dog did not belong to him, that it had dumped itself at their house a short time previously, and he said he was very anxious to get rid of it. We both agreed that it was a loon type of dog and that trouble would be around as long as it was. The doctor could not have acted finer than he did and we were quite willing to forget what had passed.

We also knew that it takes time to do things and so we were not particularly disturbed when another vicious scrap occurred on our porch the very next night, attracting nearly a hundred spectators. The next day there was another one and still another the following day. It was then evident the doctor could not do what he wanted to do and so we decided to help him. We called the cops to come and see the wreckage and the carnage. It sure was a mess. Some sort of official

A Hospital For Contagion

The movement for a ward for patients suffering from contagious diseases launched by the Lower Merion Board of Health will meet with divided opinion. A large majority of residents will favor the idea because of the better care that will be given to the patients and because there will be much less chance of the further spread of the ailment. But there is a fair-sized minority who prefer to care for their own in their homes. According to the plan announced by the Board either course will be possible if those remaining at home receive proper isolation and treatment.

It is quite probable that the Bryn Mawr Hospital authorities will co-operate with the Board in every way possible. This institution has set its standards far beyond the actual demands of the times and is usually in advance of the needs of the large community it serves.

Deserving a Testimonial

At a testimonial dinner recently given Scoutmaster John C. Foster, leader of the Wynnwood Troop of Boy Scouts, prominent men of the community paid tribute to the work he has done in the last three years with these energetic youngsters. The Wynnwood scouts, it is becoming pretty well known throughout the Delmont district, are one of the most capable and versatile troops not only along the Main Line, but throughout the suburbs. It is to Mr. Foster's credit that he has been able to take this unquestionably excellent material, put it through a mold and produce a splendid model.

Honor For Father Hayes

Narberth's Elm Hall was the scene of a fitting celebration on Thursday night of last week, when parishioners and friends of the Rev. Robert F. Hayes congregated to do him honor. His quarter of a century in the priesthood has won for the modest, godly rector of St. Margaret's Church a host of friends. This news-magazine joins them in extending him congratulations and best wishes.

The Boy and the Game

The appearance of three well-dressed boys in that odd-looking contrivance—a sort of dog-pound wagon—which the local police use for a patrol, aroused some comment on the streets of Ardmore one evening last week.

The boys were subsequently arraigned before Magistrate Cronin and it developed that they had been playing baseball. The ball-playing was not objected to so much as the fact that it was done on the grounds of a private school. The school authorities were within their rights, but not especially generous. The police cannot be blamed for making an arrest upon demand. The Magistrate very properly discharged the trio and warned them to keep away from that particular school property.

The question at issue is not one of fixing blame for an unfortunate incident. But with all the whoop and holler made about Boy Week every spring, with orators every now and then sounding their trumpets about the "boy of today; man of tomorrow," it seems rather sad that a few old-fashioned, unorganized Ardmore or Haverford boys who want to play baseball should get locked up for exercising what seems to us one of boyhood's inalienable rights.

The borough of Narberth has a baseball field. Could not the Playgrounds Committee of the Board of Commissioners take some action to the end that vacant ground for baseball fields be loaned or, at the least, that playgrounds be open until dusk at 9 P. M. instead of closing at 8 as at present?

A few copies of the new 1930 tourist map of Pennsylvania State highways have been received by "Our Town" and are available in the office, above the Narberth Coal Company, for free distribution.

JESS—IN FUN

Re: The Beetle.

I, for one, am heartily tired of playing host to the Japanese beetle. The first summer he was somewhat of a novelty but now he is quite as regular a summer visitor as Jasmine's relatives, and almost as annoying. Jasmine's relatives, if you happen to be unacquainted with my little domestic circle, are my in-laws; frequently I am compelled to admit that they are little better than outlaws. Of course beetles are distinctly preferable to relatives, for one can with perfect propriety attempt the extermination of the former, while the latter must be endured with whatever degree of taciturnity and fortitude one can muster. I convoke this little conference, then, solely to consider ways and means of doing away with the Japanese beetle. To eliminate the folks from the farm each tortured soul among you must formulate his own schemes.

We could approach the beetle problem through Governmental channels. The immigration laws might be altered to exclude this remarkably undesirable alien. Perhaps, even at this late date, the largest beetle producing States might exert enough political pressure to have a heavy protective duty placed upon all imported insects (or are beetles bugs? I'll have my secretary do some intensive research on this subject. It is unusual and disconcerting to find myself without detailed knowledge on any subject). Possibly the most efficient and expeditious method would be to encourage the people of these United States to ratify an amendment prohibiting beetles and then they would drop into the oblivion which the demon rum now enjoys. If this projected amendment were added to the constitution, however, there would probably be some perverted citizens who would immediately fill their cellars and their backyards with beetle-hatcheries, beetle-preserves, beetle-farms, or whatever it is that beetles are grown in. And there is a preposition at the termination of a sentence. If anyone cares to write in and observe that "a preposition is an incorrect word to end a sentence with," I shall have the matter given my careful attention. The quoted phrase is one of the oldest and most hackneyed in the history of this world. Somewhere in the third book of Herodotus there is the story of the messenger who reported to Darius that the barbarians had fled. In his excitement Darius queried, "Where to?" The messenger, thinking to display his erudition, originated the quoted phrase. Herodotus tells us that the scene closed with Darius wiping his sword upon a silken scarf, and the leading undertakers of Persia preparing to get down to business. But I digress.

Do you know a Japanese beetle when you see one? He is a beautiful and highly-colored little fellow. He eats ravenously of the most expensive foods. He flits about aimlessly and can't concentrate for any length of time. Were it not for his habit of arising early of a summer morning, I should say that his habits and attributes closely approximate those of the modern girl. Of course he doesn't yet seem to incline towards drink, but one must remember that he has not had much time to become accustomed to the habits of our country.

Japanese beetles are very fond of music. If you have a voice like mine you can probably banish them from your garden plot by singing to them occasionally.

When Floyd Gibbons comes on the air, and he does it quite frequently—really somebody ought to write to the Federal Radio Commission about it—don't turn off the switch as you usually do. Keep the thing going full blast. The beetle will hear the noise, curious little brat that he is, and climb down the loud speaker to ascertain the cause of the rasping. Clamp a copy of this news-magazine (advt.) over the mouth of the speaker, and you have caught your beetle. One of my friends kills beetles by reading Saturday Evening Post editorials to them, but this

Explosives Removed From Penn Valley

Township Takes Action Pending
Outcome of Property Owners' Suit.

MAY NOT PRESS BILL

Removal of the store of explosives from the storehouse in Penn Valley was announced Friday by Lower Merion Township. This came out in the course of a preliminary hearing on a bill in equity presented by Percival Roberts, Jr., and Guy Croyle.

The hearing, held in Norristown, was attended by Franklin P. Wright, of the firm of Larzelere and Wright, representing the township in the suit to have the dynamite and black powder removed from the territory.

It was stated on the record that all explosives had been removed, and that the township would be responsible for the condition of the property. The authorities agreed to see that no explosives were stored there pending final determination of the bill on its merits.

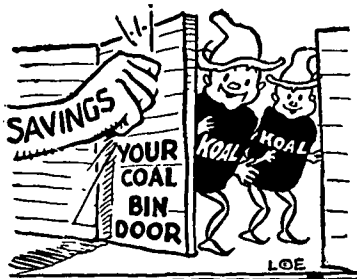

It was further agreed that if explosive storage is resumed, a rule for an immediate hearing on the bill could be reinstated. The Atlas Powder Company, named as co-defendants, were not represented.

The township now has thirty days in which to file an answer to the bill, and if this is not done the Court may enter a permanent injunction against the alleged nuisance. Attorneys for the plaintiffs claim that if an answer is filed promising abandonment of the such storage, the suit will not be pressed.

An undertaker was shot in Chicago the other day. Probably by someone who thought he had taken too many for a ride.

Thomas' Triple in Eighth With Two on Gives Davismen Third Straight Victory.

FLECK BATS PERFECTLY

By John Uberti.

Nick Lyons' adroit right-hand flinging had the edge on Calhoun's portside pitching in Saturday's independent ball game between Narberth and Roxboro. Thomas' three-base smash into the right wing with two pals aboard gave the boys of Davis another victory in the eighth, 6-5.

It was merely another routine attack for the Davismen, who so far this year have won the majority of their games in that memorable eighth inning, and, what few games they have dropped was because of inconsistent connections in that inning. The Roxboro Club set the pace during the first seven innings of the fray, with Narberth fighting a strenuous uphill battle to deadlock the score on numerous occasions, but, in the final stanza, rolling hits fell in abundance about the greensward and the champions forged to the front, where they remained while Lyons felled the foe in order in the alien half.

Vernie Fleck shared the hitting laurels with Thomas when he slammed Calhoun for four consecutive singles during this game to run his hitting streak to eight straight games for the year. Furthermore, this is the second time that Vernie has batted for the maximum degree.

Narberth's fielding was the finest displayed this season by the local players, while their twelve-hit victory tells a story of its own as to their ability with the hickory.

Burns and his co-worker, Ray Young, brought home the bulk of the six runs coined, Mickey tallying two and Young one.

In the foreign half of the opener Roxboro bunched a pair of singles and a double to score two runs, a deed quickly emulated by the slugging sons of Narberth. Howdy Powell singled only to be forced off the keystone by Burns, Moyer to Kershner. Mickey counted when Humphreys rocked a triple along the white line in rightfield. The veteran evened the count when he crossed on Fleck's first hit of the game. However, Vernie was caught stealing second and Heckel missed three strikes.

Fleck's second hit proved prolific when the run that severed the tie was sent over the pentagon in the third. Calhoun scooped up Powell's roller and relayed to first for the first out. Burns rammed a virile two-base clout into right and when Kershner played all around Humphreys' teaser, the vet's admission to first was made with ease. Burns came in from the hot-box on Fleck's stinging hit past second. Heckle was thrown out, Snyder to Walmsley.

Roxboro made good use of their three hits in the fourth and fifth innings when each man came home with a run to edge into the lead. Nick Lyons braced up and allowed only three more hits during the next four frames of play, while co-operative fielding of his pals checked the foe's advancement on the lanes, only one man reaching as far as third during this period. The enemy fell in order in two of the remaining four innings. In the eighth inning Fleck touched Calhoun for his fourth hit and Yowell, who waved Heckle's bat, also hit a short single. Both men moved up one on Rubincan's sacrifice hit, and when Yowell took too great a lead off second he automatically forced Fleck out at the plate. Martin singled, stole second and counted behind Yowell on Thomas' triple into deep right. Lyons went out, Snyder to Walmsley.

Yes, two can live as cheaply as one. At least this is true in a New York hotel. A hostelry in the theatre district is advertising that during the months of June and July it will accommodate two people for the price of one. This should certainly stimulate matrimony and honeymoon trips to New York. The railroads, needing passengers, should try the same plan.

Time Out

By TOMMY MACKLIN

Exactly five years ago this writer predicted that the 1930 class of Lower Merion would be one of the outstanding classes in athletics in the history of the school. Our prediction was based on the work the members of the eighth grade were doing in basketball and baseball.

The teams in the Junior High School that season were made up of boys whose names most of you are very familiar with right now.

Perk Scott, Al D'Amora and Henry Gane were guards on the basketball team. Warren Lockwood and Tip Peters were the forwards. Al Mandes, though small, was beginning to show promise of his present ability.

Keith Parks and Henry Gane were outstanding players on the baseball team and Andy McLaughlin was showing promise in both track and basketball.

With the Senior High winning four suburban championships this season, our prediction has been fulfilled, and being somewhat puffed up over it, we will make another prediction at this time.

The class of 1934 will do as well as the present group of athletes have done. They may not produce the same records, but they will have just as outstanding a group of athletes as the present class has turned out.

Lower Merion Junior High School has the greatest all-around group of athletes in its history in the present eighth grade sections. At least twenty of them have been outstanding in the various sports.

You readers and fans will not have to wait until 1934 to recognize them as they will begin to win games for Lower Merion long before that time.

The Senior High bade adieu to many fine athletes and gentlemen last week. Many of the outstanding students have not been seen on the athletic field, yet they will go out and bring credit to the Maroon and White. Others whose names are well known because of their athletic ability are making plans to enter higher schools of learning next fall.

D'Amora is planning to enter the U. of P. "Perk" Scott is to go to Temple next year. Tip Peters, flashy totter of footballs, is going to Bucknell. Warren Lockwood and Al Mandes will prep for a year at Swaveley School in Virginia. Alfred Bonniwell will continue his preparatory course for another year by going to Manlius School in New York. Keith Parks has chosen Lafayette, Coach Bill Anderson's Alma Mater, and that about covers the plans of the graduating athletes.

There are still some "greats" left at the Maroon and White to carry on next season. John Pennypacker, Seaver Rose, Roy Williams, Herb Thomas, Jack Rockwell, Jim Turner, Herb Young, Dick Segal, and many others will do their bit along the Main Line next season.

Seaver Rose was elected captain of the baseball team for next season. Seaver is from Narberth, where they love their baseball, and he will make a fine captain. He is a sincere athlete, always working for the good of the cause, and this column wishes him good luck, and a championship ball club.

By the way, gentlemen, the tennis team of the Lower Merion Senior High won the suburban championship last week. They have only dropped one match this season.

Hunter Lott, sophomore flash, is the backbone of the team and he has two more years to carry the colors on the courts.

Well, fellows, the hills and lakes of old New Hampshire are calling. I shall hop a fast Chevrolet in a few days and travel to the cool of the New England woods where the trails are long and steep, where the trout leap from crag to crag, and the loons give their weird calls to the tired camper in the still of the night. But I shall gather together a lot of new things to tell you, and I shall be back to keep that date I have with you at this time next September, and until then, "Come on in, the water's fine."

Baseball Fans Complain About Naughty Children

Many complaints have been received recently by the management of the Narberth Park Association that children running in and out of the grandstand enclosure have been making it a rather tedious and difficult task for the patrons to follow the games closely. Women have made personal complaints to "Gene" Davis of children running about restlessly and persistently, throwing stones and spitting water within the enclosure, spraying many of the fans nearby and making the whole affair an unpleasant one for them.

The management, therefore, asks that all complaints be made promptly and directly to the management at the park at the time of the game, or to the players or police who are on duty at each game.

Letter to Editor

warning was issued, but it was not of much avail, as the fights continued to be of almost daily occurrence and peace had long since fled.

Babies which had always been sound, well-balanced little creatures started to be jumpy and nervous, and the extra restrictions put on our dog's meanderings imposed on him what was decidedly a dog's life. Meanwhile our excellent Esther was at her wits' ends, with her household duties multiplied many times over.

The climax came early on a Sunday evening. We had to go to Bryn Mawr for a quick visit. The back door was locked and the two front doors closed, but not locked. The dog was left in the house alone, carefully ensconced in the laundry. We tried hard to guard against another melee, and were specially mindful of the Sunday night and the quiet which belonged to it. Nevertheless, when we returned we were greeted by a crowd around the back door and were informed that the two dogs were tearing themselves to pieces in our kitchen. In we go and there they are, ripping themselves apart in the tallest tiff they ever had. We desperately get our dog into the only pen at once available, the storm door enclosure, and called Ardmore. In the midst of the phoning—crash went some more glass, as the collie, now furious on our front porch, tried to beat his way through to our imprisoned Hector.

Now, I ask you, what could or should a man do when confronted by a bedlam such as this and what limit is set by a sane charity? If you ask how the loon dog got into our house with all the doors closed, I must refer you to Mrs. Town for the answer. Outside on the curb that night she said that "barking dogs drive me mad." We said to her some things a man should never say to a woman, a fact which is now recited only in the way of contrition and not at all because we gloat in the episode. Assuredly we don't.

This, then, is the story of how we got into the police records, and for the rest of it we'll wait until the editor gets back, if he ever does.

J. J. CABREY.

Note: In this letter Mr. Cabrey makes reference to the Narberth police report published last week, in which were listed nineteen details, including these events of early May:

"Mr. Cabrey, of Windsor Avenue, at the corner of Narberth Avenue, complained about Mrs. Town's dog running at large.

"Mr. Cabrey again complained about Mrs. Town's dog, coming into his yard and fighting his dog. Mrs. Town was notified to keep her dog tied or a warrant would be served on her."

Let Mr. Cabrey not castigate the editor upon his return from Yale's events. The publisher passed the article, which we regard as one of the most interesting reports of a borough department ever printed.

To Mrs. Town, our sympathy for the responsibility involved in extending hospitality to such an obstreperous beast. To Hector Cabrey, our wishes for future peace.—The Publisher.

Bala-Cynwyd Detour

The improvement includes a thirty-foot roadway with curbs on each side that serves a large residential district, and relieves traffic on the Lincoln Highway.

Narberth Loses to Bearded Visitors

Four Runs in Second Inning Prove Turning Point of the Game.

THE SCORE WAS 8 TO 5

By John Uberti.

Sixteen men, including three rescue pitchers and pinch hitters, failed to check the relentless onward course of the House of David last Wednesday and fell beneath a terrific onslaught of fifteen hits to lose, 8-5. This was Narberth's second defeat in twilight baseball in the past five games played.

George Graham went in at the start for the Davismen, but retired under cover in the second inning when alien bats sung out a doleful song for the boroughites as they bombed him for four runs. Keith Parks, of Lower Merion High School, lifted the bore-some task from his weary hands and retired the side without further scoring. During his administration on the hill he was troubled for four nicks and one more run and was in turn withdrawn for George Babb. Babb was no puzzle for the Sioux City club and they pummeled him for five additional hits and two runs.

Vernie Fleck increased his hitting to nine games by cracking Wingfield for two hits out of three times up.

Circuit blows from the bats of Martin and Harvey, who is a newcomer in the local line-up, were dwarfed as the foemen came to bat in the alien halves and, with comfortable ease, augmented their lead as the game went on. Both clouts were made with the bases empty.

Graham struck out two men and walked one during his stay on the hill and Parkes felled three and walked four. Babb was not given much stay on the peak and showed his generosity by stopping three men in their paths, but owes his thanks to Manager Davis, who called the game in the eighth, just at a moment when the House of David were beginning to solve his fast and curved ball, a gift to the boys of Sioux City.

Every man of the visiting team garnered bingles at the rate of two to four each, except two, but they displayed rare keenness of eye by walking and aiding considerably with numerous sacrificial hits.

Both clubs found the scoring column on four occasions, but on those occasions in which the Iowans found it is a matter that had better not be discussed for the sake of local players. For in those four innings of hitting they won a ball game as has never been won before on the Narberth ball park. They won fairly and with incredulous ease.

This is how they copped the game in that dashing second inning. Wingfield strolled and went to second on Hooks' sacrifice, while Riley singled into rightfield. Both runners came home on Roach's one-base ply into left-centre and Joseph blanked. When Lewis tripled into the right wing, Roach came in walking. Parkes went in to relieve Graham and was hit consecutively by Stevens and Boyd, Stevens' hit sending in Lewis. However, Boyd was caught off the keystone when he tried to stretch his short single to retire the side.

Ardmore Beats Cops Who Win at Cynwyd

Rally by Merion Company Takes Game From Police; Second Contest Is Walkaway.

Lower Merion's police baseball team showed it could stage a comeback this week. After losing to the Merion Fire Company of Ardmore, 13-8, last Saturday the minions of the law went to Cynwyd Tuesday evening and defeated the home firemen, 16 to 7.

In the game with the Ardmore firemen, played at Narberth, the cops were leading 8 to 6 in the sixth. A few bunched hits, erratic pitching and miscues in the field in the seventh, however, permitted the firemen to put across five runs and they added two more in the eighth. Lanser held the cops to seven hits. The box score:

Different at Cynwyd

On Tuesday evening the policemen met the volunteers of the Union Fire Company of Bala-Cynwyd and a different story was unfolded. Titlow, the firemen's pitcher, was buried under an avalanche of base hits, including home runs by Burton and F. Flynn, which were good for a total of sixteen runs in the first three innings. G. Tyson relieved him and held the tired officers scoreless for the rest of the game. Winters did the receiving for Bala-Cynwyd.

Durks for the police held the firemen scoreless until toward the end of the game when it began to rain and the Cynwyd men found their batting eyes sufficiently to put across seven runs. Valentine caught for Durks. The final score was 16 to 7 in favor of the cops.

Model Plane Pulls Glider in Theatre Contest Here

Nearly forty boys competed in a model aeroplane contest at the Narberth Theatre last Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. Models demonstrated in flight included one which is insured for a thousand dollars. First prize winner, it is owned by Edward Maisson, of Philadelphia, who has flown it in contests throughout the East.

Frank McCrery, Narberth, won second prize; Henry Whitacre, Overbrook, third, and Alexander Loos, Narberth, fourth.

Special prizes went to Peter Andrews and Thomas Conday, of Philadelphia. One of the exhibits was a plane pulling a glider, demonstrated for the first time on the Main Line. Honorable mention went to Martin Case, Narberth. Prizes of cash and theatre tickets were presented by the theatre management at the Saturday matinee. The contest was in charge of John B. Alker, Narberth, builder and instructor at the Overbrook High School.

A recent shipment of razors to Africa indicates that they are going to have a big dance over there.

Verne Fleck Leads

After trailing closely in the first four games, Fleck went into a batting spree to raise the scoring from .376 to .500, and still continued to elevate the mark during his activities of the recent contest with Roxboro, wherein he slugged out a 1.000 figure.

His present mark is .566.

As for his fielding, he has made numerous sparkling retrieves and has executed with the vim and dexterity of youth; and all without a flaw.

Harvey Humphreys, another veteran of the diamond, who has been hitting in the past seven of the eight games played, follows very closely with the hickory in batting consistency, while Thomas, of the younger set, comes in third.

The regular team's average follows:

Narberth Priest Feted Upon 25th Anniversary

Hayes was told that the cook was ill and the dinner must be had at a restaurant. And so they took him for a ride, which ended quickly and abruptly on Forest Avenue, Narberth.

Up the stairs by the borough fire house Father Hayes was led, a little suspicious by now and a little hesitant. In another moment he was gently propelled in through the doorway of Elm Hall, where he stood thunderstruck in a veritable fairyland. The large hall was decorated with palms and plants and the long tables, occupying three sides of the hall, gleamed not only with the beauty of silvery table settings and of flowers, but also with the smiling, charming women and their proud husbands who had come to do homage to their beloved pastor.

And best of all, perhaps, from the viewpoint of Father Hayes, there sat at the speakers' table and near it twelve clergymen representing half of those invited as his particular friends.

When the guest of honor, still in a daze, was escorted to the centre place at the speakers' table and seated in the big bishop's chair, lavishly decorated in silver, the dinner began. And it was a dinner. But the choice viands took second place to the shouts and laughter, the wit and repartee, between priest and layman, between man and woman. Everyone caught the spirit, so jollification reigned supreme.

The Speeches

And this same spirit entered into the speeches, all of which started with good humor and sparkling wit, and ended with an eulogy for him who had for twenty-five years served his Maker and his fellowman as a Catholic priest.

Frank H. Mancill, of Merion, in his quiet, sincere manner spoke for the laity, while of the clergy the following mingled humor with glowing tribute: Rt. Rev. Monsignor Charles F. Kavanagh, Rt. Rev. Monsignor John J. Mellon, Rev. Daniel L. McGinley, Rev. Joseph L. N. Wolfe and the following assistant rectors of Father Hayes, both in the past and at the present time: Rev. William J. Walsh, Rev. F. X. McGinty, Rev. T. A. Brady.

Among the other priests present were: Patrick H. Collis, D.D., Rev. Peter A. Daly, Rev. Michael A. Boyle, Francis E. Highland, D. D., and Father Joseph Hayes, brother of the guest of honor.

The Presentation Speech

Last of all John J. Cabrey, hard-working chairman and toastmaster of the evening, made one of his characteristic brilliant speeches, explaining the occasion of the jubilee both for Father Hayes and his flock, extolling St. Margaret's pastor and all those who had come to do him honor. This he terminated by presenting to Father Hayes a token of the love and esteem in which all of the St. Margaret's laity held him. Father Hayes replied briefly, gratefully and humbly. And with great cheers the party broke up.

Children's Bouquet

St. Margaret's Parochial School children also had their share not only in honoring their pastor, but also in completely surprising him. On Sunday afternoon, June 15, Father Hayes was invited to what he thought would be the regular children's exercises, but instead, to his utmost amazement, he found awaiting him a spiritual bouquet which had been secretly started weeks before.

This bouquet was presented by twenty-five little girls, each dressed as little flowers and each with a tiny reproduction of a silver chalice fastened to their costumes. These children marched up to their pastor and Gertrude Manion, their spokesman, most beautifully presented the guest of honor with the promise of twenty-five different masses, to be said in twenty-five different churches all for his well-being and his intentions. Twenty-five other little girls flitted to and fro like veritable fairies, whose costumes they wore.

The boys—fifty in all—were not to be outdone by their fairer schoolmates. Husky youths of many ages, they joined in the celebration. Their most elaborate showing was a representation of the U. S. Marines, who performed admirably in drill, dance and song. This was followed by the same boys, who by difficult formations turned themselves into a boat, containing six large boys with long silver oars, the boat and rowers so moving that there was the actual appearance of a ship in motion.

Besides all this there was a splendid orchestra, a full chorus, duets, tableaux, a violin solo, marches, hymns and other songs, all executed with a spirit and efficacy which brought great credit to the Sisters and their ready performers. The afternoon was fittingly terminated with a most creditable speech by Miss Dorothy Mulligan for the Sodality, and a response of praise and gratitude by Father Hayes.—(By K. H. R.)

The Senators are protesting against the installation of dial phones in the Senate and Senate office building at Washington. We can hardly blame them for coming out strongly against anything that would cause such an unaccustomed mental exercise.

Notes of Narberth Community Library

The Narberth Community Library, in co-operation with Mothers' Council, has again prepared summer reading courses for the school children. As last year, the present plan is for "Travel Through Books." There are three lists of books, one for grade 2, one for grades 3 and 4, and one for grades 5, 6 and 7. (This refers to the grade just completed by the child.) Each entrant is given an outline map, on which he is to record the books as he reads them, making his record as neat and attractive as possible. Every child completing the course will receive a certificate from the library, a sign that he has enough character to carry out what he undertakes. There will also be a prize, awarded by Mothers' Council, for the best map in each group.

Thirty children have already registered. It is hoped that more will add their names to the roll and keep them there to the end.

Gives Ash Collection

Schedule and Rules

Superintendent George B. Suplee of Public Works has issued the following notice about ash collections this summer:

Ash collection in Narberth will take place every other week during the summer—on the following weeks: June 23, July 7 and 21, August 4 and 18, and September 1, 15 and 29. The borough ash-men make their rounds, subject to delays beyond their control, according to the following schedule each collection week:

North of the railroad, west of Essex Avenue, Mondays; between Essex and Narberth Avenues, Tuesdays; in the district bounded by Narberth Avenue, Montgomery Pike and Haverford Avenue, Wednesdays; and south of the railroad, Thursdays and Fridays.

Garbage and paper may not be mixed with the ashes, and metal containers must be used for the ashes. Bottles, tin cans and other debris other than paper may be mixed with the ashes.

All containers must be placed at the rear of the house where they can be seen from the street. Do not put them out on the public sidewalk.
